The Adventure of a Lifetime

A journey is best measured¹⁰ in friends rather than miles. What happened²⁰ to me here proves this perfectly.

It was a nice, sunny day³⁰. The trees gave us a shade as our camp counselor was guiding us to our destination. As she was cheering us on, I heard a familiar voice⁵⁰.

-Hey, Coby, wanna see how high I can climb that tree!⁶⁰

I looked up to where the voice was coming from which was at the top of a huge oak tree.

-Sam, you maniac! Why did you do it?⁸⁰

-Dunno. I wanted to.

-Well, get down¹⁰⁰ before we lose sight of the others!

-Okay, okay, see?¹¹⁰

He was fast, but not fast enough, and when he finally climbed back down I realised that we were lost.¹³⁰

-Okay, okay... -I said, trying to keep calm, -we should watch for any wild animals.¹⁴⁰

-Like that pack of wolves behind you?¹⁵⁰

I looked behind me, and there they were, teeth out ready to pounce. We quickly started running. We were fast, but they were faster and something had to be done.¹⁶⁰

As the beasts were getting on us, I grabbed the nearest long stick and turned around, standing on my ground. My body was shaking, and the wolves kept barking, but they didn't move closer. After a while, they walked away.¹⁸⁰

-What was that? -asked Coby Sam.

-Just a trick I read somewhere. In a forest survival guide, I think. Still shocked, Sam hugged me tightly and promised to never tease me about being a bookworm again.²⁰⁰

We eventually found our way back, but the memories of this event still makes me excited whenever I think about it.²²⁰
