A. "A night in the woods"

You've definitely heard the famous proverb "A journey is best measured in friends rather than miles". I consider it's actually the best way to describe my story.

Last Saturday evening my best friend John and I were sitting in my house having absolutely nothing to do. Completely spontaneously this crazy idea came up to my mind. Why not organize a camping trip to the forest for both of us? I told John my idea and he agreed. We packed all the stuff needed for our little adventure, within an hour, took a bus and ended up in front of the dark forest. We decided to walk along the path for thirty minutes and then set a tent. After it we made a small fire and cooked some sausages. It was close to midnight, so we started preparing for sleep. After saying "Good night" to each other, we fell asleep. The next thing I remember is that I woke up because of the strange sounds in the bushes. John was fast asleep, so I had to wake him up "John, John", I whispered into his ear, "do you hear it too?" "Yes, but I would rather not..." said John quietly. In the next thirty seconds we understood that it was the bear making noises in the bushes while trying to find food. I was petrified and instantly started panicking. Well, it's not every day you run into a bear in the forest. Luckily, John ~~can~~ stays cool-headed in any situation. He took left sausages and threw it in the bush. Bear ran away. ~~looking for sausages~~. We rapidly got up, ~~packed everything~~ and ran to the bus stop. ~~Turned out~~ ~~It was already 7 am, that so we were able to go home by bus.~~ Fortunately, we came back home safely.

It was the night I'll never forget. Sometimes you don't need to go far away from your hometown to have an adventure. All you need is a ~~good~~ courageous friend and a little bit of imagination - that is how the greatest memories are made.
